GLENDALE BUILDING GOES ROARING OVER MILLION MARK FOR NEW RECORD

Exact Valuation of Permits Taken Out for January, 1923, Totals $1,008,336, Exceeding All Previous Figures by Big Margin

NEARLY DOUBLE THAT OF JANUARY, 1922

More Big Construction Is on the Way for Starting in the Shortest Month of the Year, Indicating a Second Million

By ALBERT MARPLE

Glendale went "bustin' and roarin'" over the $1,000,000 building permit mark shortly before noon today.

The exact valuation of the permits taken out during the month of January was $1,008,336. The permits issued in January, 1922, totaled $512,155, the net increase being $496,181.

Without a great deal of imagination it can be readily seen that the number and value of permits for the year 1923 will knock the 1922 six million dollar record for a "row of ashcans," as they say.

There was nothing in the way of "padding" done to bring the January total up to the million dollar mark. It was just the general run of business. Things are just keeping up and picking up, that's all.

One of the pleasing features about the permits that were issued during January, as well as the several months that preceded it, is that a goodly percentage of the permit valuation was for homes.

The tourists who are flocking into Southern California are evidently calling on Glendale before they make their realty purchases. Some take in the advantages of the city at a glance, others require several days and possibly, several weeks. Still others can't see the big pullers of this city at the "once over." It requires another trip "back home," along with the mud, and ice, and slush of the east to convert them. They leave for their eastern abode, but pretty soon we hear their little feet pattering along the well-walked streets of Glendale. It is the same old story. They simply can't help it.

The building that has been going on here is scattered well throughout the city. No particular section is favored. This is well for it shows that all sections of Glendale are desirable to live in and that each has its own particularly attractive features.

The boys of the Glendale building department say the half has not been told, so far as the 1923 building is concerned. They declare that bigger things are in prospect than have been even dreamed of in the past. Plans for a number of business blocks are being drawn, and they know of dozens of homes that are to be started in the near future.

February will be a short month—just 28 days of 24 hours each, but the prospects are that the permits for that short month will total an other cool million. If this can be accomplished Glendale will make it $8,000,000 by the close of 1923. Those who don't believe this should keep their "specks" handy.

Following are the permits issued up to noon today:

Louie Castellano, 1249 San Fernando road, store, $3,000	Gracie R. Green, 1413 Stanley avenue, 2 rooms and garage, 1,300	Mr. and Mrs. Ray Engbert, 1265 Elm, garage, 300	C. E. May, 427 Ardmore, garage, 300	Harry L. Angrell, 715 East Raleigh, addition, 600	Dick Michel, 542-44 North Louise, 10-room duplex, 8,500	Frank H. Rittenhouse, 1245 South Mariposa, garage, 900	Agatha Groen, 1435 North Columbus, 7 rooms and garage, 5,000	Same, 513 Pioneer Drive, 6 rooms and garage, same contractor, 4,000	Same, 664 West California, 5 rooms and garage, same contractor, 3,500	Same, 660 West California, 5 rooms and garage, same contractor, 3,500	Board of Education, Glendale, new school building, 1,000	Same, school building, Broadway way school, 1,000	P. CHILD RUN OVER. ESCAPES INJURY

The small son of Mrs. Louis Young, 469 West Oak street, was run over by an automobile, the driver of which is unknown, at the corner of Colorado and Pacific, yesterday afternoon. At the time of the accident the little fellow was on his way home from school. The injuries received by the boy were not serious, however, and he was taken to his home.

BOOTLEGGER FAILED TO BRIBE NUNN

W. E. King, Caught With Liquor-laden Truck, Is Said to Have Offered Money on Arrest

W. E. King of 6575 Fountain avenue, Los Angeles, who was arrested in Glendale at 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning, and against whom charges of illegally transporting liquor and attempting to bribe an officer have been entered, was released on $3000 bonds yesterday, pending his arraignment at 10 o'clock on February 7.

It is claimed King tried to bribe Officer Nunn at the time of his arrest and also Lieutenant Griffin, as he was being retained at police station. King will be prosecuted under the Wright act. Bonds were furnished by A. C. Carson, a bond broker of Los Angeles, and B. F. Boyd, president of the Providence Mines company of Los Angeles.

The speed wagon that was taken at the time of the arrest of King is being retained by the city. In the event of conviction this truck as well as the amount of the fine may be retained by the city of Glendale.

PAROLED CONVICT CAUGHT HERE IS RETURNED

Fred Anderson, Captured by Patrolman Nunn, Is Much Wanted

Fred Anderson, who was arrested here Monday by Officer Nunn, on a charge of violating his parole at San Quentin, and also of stealing an automobile from a person in Modesto, was taken this morning to the northern city to answer to the charge. Deputy Sheriff Smith of Modesto came south to take Anderson back to the scene of the crime.

That there is nothing in Mactier, Ontario, Canada, on which Carl Westervelt, who was arrested with Anderson, can be held, was the substance of a telegram that was received from the Mactier police by the Glendale police department yesterday. The telegram states that unless something was found on Westervelt he should be permitted to go.

SCHOOL BASKETBALL

The basketball games scheduled to be played Monday afternoon between girl teams of freshmen and seniors were postponed and will probably be postponed again until next Monday afternoon. The two teams—each of sophomore and junior girls are booked to play Thursday night.

LEGION-PASADENA BASKETBALL GAME

The American Legion basketball game with Pasadena is called for 7:30 this evening, at the boys' gymnasium of the high school, instead of at 8:15 as previously announced.

GRADUATES FILE LAST TESTAMENT

Requests Stir Merriment As They Are Read

BEQUEATH DEBATERS

Rest of School Gets Miscellaneous Assortment of Sensations

The last will and testament of the graduating class of any school is always looked forward to with much apprehension and also expectation. It is usually provokes a great deal of merriment. The will of the winter graduating class from Glendale Union high school, which was read at the farewell banquet and class day exercises at the school Tuesday, was no exception. It is as follows:

"We, the winter class of 1923, being of sound mind, and knowing that there approaches on winged feet that final hour when we scrape up the last papers from the floors of our lockers and leave them stripped and pitiful, do desire to bequeath to those who are to tread in our ways these things, which have served us so well, to wit:

"To that omnipotent organization, the Student Body, we leave our love for the jolly rain-soaked and plaster-shedding walls of G. U. H. S. (also its perforated roof), with the injunction that they tread these halls decorously as we have done.

"To the seniors, who will in a few months also pass into oblivion, we bequeath the powers of persuasion possessed by our three debaters, and our prowess in battle. (We prefer to leave this clause ambiguous. As the seniors approach June they will no doubt understand.)

"To the juniors we leave our feeling for the much-talked-of and little understood 'higher things of life,' and as we do not wish to seem narrow-minded, we include prize fights, grand operas, and revival meetings.

"The sophomores being a headstrong and egotistical crowd will, of course, forget in a great hurry. To them we are a four and a half days wonder. Still we leave them our best wishes.

"The freshmen will never forget. We have left them our history charts.

"To our class teachers, Miss Hunter and Mr. Lockwood, we leave a little peace, having kept them in constant upheaval for many moons.

"George Fraley leaves a cut-glass bud vase for the janitor's room.

"Kathleen Campbell, who has a political soul, leaves an oil painting of herself to adorn the auditorium wall. To this benevolent gift she adds a package of peppermint life savers.

"To Miss Soper, Lura Baldwin will a pair of satin pumps with many pangs.

"Harold Majors will a convincing mein to Fred Peck and to Isabel Tousey, a memory of companionship.

"Ethel Burke bequeaths a bottle of barnacles pickled in alcohol, to Miss Green.

"Charles Page leaves the memory of his virtue to be a shining example to Ralph Van Hoorbake; also a Police Gazette.

"Helen Morris, since she intends to be an actress, feels she will have no further use for her conscience and wishes Cleo Redd to inherit same.

"Grace Baldwin leaves her rhyming dictionary to Doris Taylor.

"Hilda Foote leaves a bill of indemnities to the faculty for much mimeographing.

"Newell June leaves a pair of loaded dice to Mr. Bormcamp, also a bathed handkerchief.

"Agnes H. Nuttall leaves her proficiency in science and mathematics (particularly algebra) to anyone desiring same; also her socialistic tendencies to Betty Higgins.

"Clover Johnson bequeaths a well-thumbed set of Dickens upon Marguerite Eckles.

"To Mr. Brewster (who soon as payments are complete) we leave a marble watch, autographed by Henry Irvine.

"Done under our hand and seal this thirtieth day of January, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and twenty-three. (Signed) "Winter Class of 1923."

HUGE DISCREPANCIES ARE FOUND IN REPORT L. A. COUNTY SCHOOLS

Figures Considered by Grand Jury Include Millions That Are Duplicated and $25,000,000 That Should Not Have Been Included

600 PER CENT INCREASED COST DISPROVED

Auditor Payne Explains That Figures First Given Out Were Furnished by One of His Assistants and Were Not Authorized by Him

The report of the investigating committee of eleven, appointed by the Los Angeles County Teachers' institute to investigate the figures obtained from the county auditor's office, which were made the basis of a sensational report issued by the grand jury, declaring that while the attendance on schools had increased 60 per cent, the cost of maintenance had increased 600 per cent, will be interesting reading and will show that figures do lie when they are juggled. The committee report in full is printed on an inside page.

The outstanding features of the report are that in the amount of $58,000,000 used by the grand jury as a basis for comparison is included $9,000,000, which should not have been included at all because it is only a duplication of figures; and also included is $25,000,000, which should not have been there because it is money to be spent for bonds and interest, buildings and equipment, also $500,000, which was a balance in the budget to be carried over, leaving approximately $23,000,000 as the true maintenance expenses of the year.

This comparison of expenditures for the year 1918-19 as exhibited in the committee's report shows an approximate increase of 144 per cent in the amount of money to be expended for maintenance and an approximate increase in attendance during the same period of 75 per cent. These are the correct figures instead of 600 per cent increase in expense and 600 per cent increase in attendance.

When asked for an explanation County Auditor Payne said he did not personally appear before the grand jury neither did any member of his force appear before the jury, adding however: "A member of the grand jury came to my office and asked for figures as a basis of comparison and they were furnished by one of my assistants."

County Auditor Payne is the author of a bill now before the state legislature for the consolidation of all of the schools of the county both in and out of the cities under one administration, which would amount to annexation of all these outside schools to the Los Angeles city system.

The bill is known as the "Eden Bill," and is not favored by school officials generally, not because they do not admit that it might promote economy but because it is not so drawn as to provide for educational efficiency, being concerned only with the financial side of the problem. It was not drawn by

COUNCIL'S GREAT DOG ORDINANCE!

The city council, following the suggestion of Dr. Kaemmerling on the dog situation, which was supported in its fundamentals by the Glendale Daily Press, has brought forth an ordinance on the handling of rabid dogs and the protection of children and pet stock, which overshoots the mark and has aroused considerable resentment.

Just why it is necessary to fix a fee of possibly $7, how that or any other sum was arrived at, is not indicated by the council.

The ordinance is not a law as yet. It should not be a law. The matter has not been digested sufficiently. The suggestion of Dr. Kaemmerling is fundamentally right. Its execution by the city council is blundering and worse.

In the Glendale Daily Press editorial of the 27th an ordinance to control the rabies situation was recommended. But no such ordinance as that drafted by the city council is illogical and ridiculous. It would vaccinate new-born pups and allow full-grown dogs of strangers brought into the city thirty days of freedom from vaccination. This is absurd. Strange dogs should be quarantined and vaccinated as a first precaution. Strange dogs bring this disease here. Yet they are allowed thirty days to run around, scatheless.

The tax as fixed is worse than ridiculous. For a 40-pound dog the serum, if bought in the open market, would cost $1.50. Any veterinarian would do the operation for 50 cents.

This is a total cost of a private operation by a reputable veterinarian of $2, for what the city council would suggest a fee of $5 or $7. Why?

Even this expense, the Glendale Daily Press is convinced, can be reduced by securing the serum free of charge from the state board of health, by way of the county health office.

It might be possible for the city council to find the money to pay the 50-cent fee to a veterinarian for the operation and debit the cost to the public health department as a public service, for which the citizen is paying, anyway.

Finest of Its Kind in So. Cal. to Welcome Glendaleans Thursday

The grand opening of the Jensen drug store, the first unit in the new Jensen Palace Grand building to make its bow to the Glendale public, will take place on Thursday, February 1. A "preview" of this establishment demonstrates the fact that without doubt it will be one of the finest stores of its kind in Southern California. It is gorgeously beautiful and far ahead of anything to be found in Glendale at this time.

In the creation of this wonderful pharmacy nothing in the way of time, labor or expense have been spared. The best, in fact, was not good enough. The finest architectural and designing skill have been employed, with the result that this store is a marvel in the truest sense of the word.

All of the woodwork of this store is of mahogany. The fixtures, which are all of the very latest design, were made especially for this store and all have marble bases. The floor covering is inlaid lino-tile, this being the first of this modern floor covering to make its appearance in Glendale. The ceiling is finished in a jazz-plaster effect with polychrome coloring, the shade-blending being something new and charmingly unique.

The store has a mezzanine balcony, which is used for the storage of various kinds of medicines and toilet preparations. This has a solid mahogany guard-rail, sliding-window wall cases, etc. At the entrance of the store is a long mahogany waiting bench for the convenience of the patrons, while the slightly-inclined entrance to the store is of tile.

The feature of this store will be the wonderful soda and ice cream fountain. This is a specially built Gibraltar feature, 40 feet long over all, being as large as any fountain in Southern California, and larger than any fountain in this part of California outside of Los Angeles. It has 21 leather upholstered revolving seats.

The fountain face is done in colored art tile, with a rose border, also in tile. It has a wide mahogany serving counter along its entire length and it has a double fitting system and a dumb waiter attachment, which will permit it being used for service for the Glendale Recreation Center, to be located in the basement.

The fountain will be under the management of M. M. Hadsell, whose efficiency as a soda fountain caterer is known to thousands of people of Glendale. He had charge of the soda fountain at the Roberts & Echols store for several years.

Home cooked luncheons and luncheonettes will be served at this fountain. A capable old-time "home cooker" has been procured for this department. Fountain luncheons will be served from 11 until 2 o'clock daily, and at other hours throughout the day luncheonettes will be dispensed. Glendale products will be used exclusively at this fountain, and all syrups used will be made by the experts employed.

C. L. Morrison, who has been prominent in drug circles in Glendale for years, will have charge of the drug store. He will be assisted by Frank C. Armour, one of the best pharmacists in Southern California, and S. A. Haviland, a pharmacist and prescription expert. All three of these gentlemen have been in Glendale for more than ten years.

Another feature of this store will be the exceptional toilet goods department that will be inaugurated. Nothing modern and up to the minute has been omitted from this department, where a complete line of domestic and foreign toilet articles will be constantly kept on hand.

The "sweets" department will be one of the prides of this store. A number of the highest grade makes of candies will be carried, in addition to all the newest novelties—just as soon as they appear. The purest and the best are sure to be found in this candy department.

The building in which this store is located is owned by R. S. Jensen, who is also proprietor of the drug establishment. W. G. Bode is building manager.

"This is Glendale's first arcade shopping center," said Mr. Bode this morning, "and we believe that when it is completed it will be the finest thing of its kind in Southern California. In fact this is the only building of its kind this side of Minneapolis. There is nothing finer in Los Angeles, San Francisco or any of the other western cities. It is absolutely supreme."

"So far as the drug establishment is concerned its policy will be to produce the finest quality of service possible. The stock will be fresh, clean and up to date in every respect. We intend that this store shall be known as the store with unsurpassed service. We will make

GROUND BREAKING FOR NEW HIGH PLANT SET ON TENTATIVE DATE

Contracts Signed, Way Is Prepared for the Beginning of Operations That Will End in September With Completion of New Unit

SATURDAY OR MONDAY CELEBRATION DAY

Program Will Include Dedication of the Acreage to the Purposes of Education and Recitation of the History of the School

Now that contracts have been signed for the general and other contracts for the construction of buildings on the new high school campus at Broadway and Verdugo road, plans are being made for ground-breaking ceremonies, which will probably be held either Saturday, February 3, or Monday, February 5, weather permitting.

As the contracts call for the completion of the buildings by September 25 next, S. K. and George Mittry, who, under the firm name of the North Pacific Construction Co., have secured the general contract, are planning to begin work without delay and push it rapidly. For this reason, any ground-breaking ceremonies must be held soon, if at all.

The program, it is expected, will include the dedication of the ground to educational purposes, a history of Glendale Union High school and several numbers by musical organizations of the school.

Taking part in the exercises will be the high school trustees, the architects, representatives of the faculty, representatives of the county superintendent's office, distinguished educators who will be honor guests, etc.

All of Glendale will be invited to attend. The trustees of Glendale Union High school having by resolution authorized the president and secretary of the board to sign the contracts awarded as soon as prepared for the construction of buildings on the new high school campus, at an adjourned meeting held Tuesday night, they were duly presented by Architects Austin, Ashley and Lindsay and executed by President Watson and Secretary Campbell, with the following firms:

S. K. and George Mittry, who are doing business under the firm name and style of the North Pacific Construction Co., and who have the general contract; Mr. Munger of Munger & Munger, who have the contracts for plumbing and for heating and ventilating, and with Mr. Peterson of the Alhambra Wall Paper and Paint Co., which has the contract for painting.

The contracts provide that the buildings shall be completed and ready for use by September 25 next. Mr. Mittry expects to block out the position of the buildings tomorrow and to start grading in a few days.

To protect himself against a shortage of labor which he might experience in the summer he will push the work as rapidly as possible during the winter and spring months and employ a large force of men.

BIRDMAN'S PAPER MOVES TO THE CITY

SEASON'S RAINFALL TO THIS DATE IS 8.30 INCHES

Does Not Reach Anywhere Near Last Year's Long Distance Record

This week's rain storm, according to Mr. Preston, totaled 1.93 inches, with .63 since yesterday morning. The season's precipitation thus far has been 8.30 inches, against 17.34 inches at this date last year. There is plenty of time yet for the season's rainfall to equal and pass the yearly average, which is about 17 inches.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Thursday, fair. Heavy to killing frosts in morning.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair, cool weather tonight and Thursday. Heavy frost in the morning.

a specialty of prompt, efficient, free delivery."

As this store is located in the Jensen building, the rest rooms of the shops will be open at all times to the patrons of this as well as the other stores, which will be opened later. The opening of the remaining portion of the building will be announced at an early date.

Editor Garvey W. Carr of The Ace, the leading airplane magazine of California, began moving his equipment to Glendale this morning. The editorial offices of this publication will be located in room 21, of the Monarch building.

Mr. Carr is extremely optimistic over the prospects of airplane advancement in Southern California, since the new airport was secured in this city.

The regular business meeting of the Knights of Pythias lodge was held last night at the K. of P. hall at Park avenue and Brand boulevard, with E. Melzer, chancellor commander, in charge. It was decided that the entertainment committee, of which G. W. King is chairman, will provide a program for the open meeting of February 20, when the 59th anniversary of the order will be celebrated. The members of the lodge and their friends are invited to attend this meeting.

NEW REALTY FIRM

M. C. Patton and H. H. Kellum are opening today a real estate and insurance brokerage office at 1913 South Brand boulevard. Mr. Patton has been a resident of Glendale for fourteen years. Mr. Kellum has recently come here from Canada where he was engaged in the banking business. He is very favorably impressed with our city. These two gentlemen appear to be well equipped to cover everything in the insurance line.

HIGH GRADUATING CLASS HOLDS BANQUET

Domestic Science Pupils Prepare Spread Served in Cafeteria

Tuesday evening members of the graduating class of Glendale High held their closing banquet and class exercises in the cafeteria where Dorothy Danner and assisting committee had supervised the decorations, and Kathleen Campbell and committee had arranged the program of toasts.

The dinner had been prepared in part by pupils in domestic science under the supervision of Miss Ellen Hanson, head of the department, and it was served by members of the advanced class.

The menu included grape cocktail, creamed chicken patties, potatoes au gratin, French peas, rolls and butter, combination vegetable salad and wafers, pineapple Bavarian cream and white cake with grape icing, coffee and salted nuts.

The tables were decorated in the class colors, violet and silver, which were carried out in the nut cups and place cards, sweet peas constituting the floral embellishment.

Newton McGillis acted as toastmaster and the toast program included, a toast to the girls, by Sidney Williams; a toast to the girls, by Clover Johnson; a toast to the school, by Virginia Wheeler.

The class prophecy which had been written by Agnes Nuttall, was read by Don Danner. The class will be read by its author, Agnes Nuttall. Short speeches were made by the vice-principals, Mrs. George U. Moyse and A. L. Ferguson, Miss Eva Hunter, George Lockwood and Harold Brewster.

A little remembrance from the class to Miss Hanson in appreciation of her interest and service in planning the banquet, was presented by Grace Baldwin.

Special guests of the class were: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brewster, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, Mrs. George U. Moyse, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Miss Iva Hunter, Mr. George Lockwood, Mrs. Dora Gibson and Miss Ellen Hanson. Mr. Moyse and Mrs. Campbell, who were invited, were unable to be present because of dinner engagement in Los Angeles.

Members of the class for whom covers were laid, were: Laura Boyd Baldwin, Grace Edith Baldwin, Mary Elizabeth Brown, Ethel E. Burke, Kathleen Louisa Campbell, Bernice Helen Coffey, Dorothy C. Danner, Hilda Florence Foots, Jeanne Clover Johnson, Anna Merriken, Janice B. Kelly, Helen Jeanette Morris, Agnes Nuttall, Frances Louise Quinby, Virginia S. Wheeler, Robert Dugan Buchanan, Raymond Eugene Cashatt, Sheldon Nutter Coit, Don Stanley Danner, Russell Elmer, George P. Fraley, Harold Miller Majors, J. Newton McGillis, William Charles Page, George Marsh Roach, Cameron Livingston Thom, Newell Willard Tume, Snyder Marvin Williams and Cecil L. Wilson.

"COLD BELT" TOURISTS TO MEET

The Canadians from the "frozen north" are preparing for their monster winter carnival, picnic and annual reunion, which will be held this year at the Municipal pleasure pier and Colorado avenue, Santa Monica, on Saturday, February 3. It is to be an all day affair, with two brass bands, three orchestras, races, games, badminton, coffee, provincial registers. Free dancing afternoon and night, concerts, outdoor entertainment, international speakers, free parking space, free rides and amusements for all children. Bring your basket lunches and cups. Canadians and all friends invited. Address: President J. Hooper, Santa Monica, or C. H. Parsons, phone 10261, Continental National bank, Los Angeles. Mark down the date, Saturday, February 3. Tell your friends.

JAN GROEN TO BUILD FOUR HOMES

Jan Groen, one of the liveliest and most active architects and builders in Glendale, took out permits for four more homes yesterday. All these he is building for Agatha Groen. These homes will be located at 1435 North Columbus, seven rooms and garage, to cost $5000; 513 Pioneer drive, six rooms and garage, to cost $4000; 664 West California, five rooms and garage, to cost $3500, and 660 West California, five rooms and garage, to cost $3500.

Jan and Agatha Groen make a wonderful home-building team. During the past year they have erected several dozen homes in this city and they have between fifteen and twenty in course of construction at all times.

All of the dwellings constructed by this team are of unusual high class. Nothing cheap or shoddy will satisfy them, and the sections of the city in which they center their building operations are extremely fortunate.

MRS. MARY A. HULL PASSES AWAY AT HER HOME

Thomas Hull Meets With Great Sorrow Tuesday Morning

Comrade Thomas Hull has met with a great bereavement in the death of his wife, who passed away yesterday morning at the home, 328 West Colorado street. She had been ailing for a long time. Mrs. Hull's maiden name was Mary A. Cummins, and she was born in Sulphur Springs, Ind., 72 years ago. She married Thomas Hull in September, 1914. They moved to Glendale three years ago and have taken a prominent part in G. A. R. and Women's Relief Corps work ever since. Mrs. Hull was a member of the First M. E. church of Glendale and her pastor, Rev. Henry L. Rasmus, will officiate at the funeral, which will be held tomorrow, 10 a. m., at the chapel in Rosedale cemetery, Los Angeles. The Corps will conduct the funeral. Mrs. Hull is survived by a son and daughter, Sylvester M. Karicote and Minnie Baker.

BAKING OF ANGEL FOOD CAKE IS SHOWN

A delight to the housewives, how to never fail with the baking of angel food cake, will be one of the features of this afternoon's lesson at the home cooking school being conducted at Coker & Taylor's plumbing establishment at 209 South Brand boulevard by Mrs. Border of Glendale, who is demonstrating the use of the Lorain heat control device in connection with the Direct Action gas ranges. With this heat regulator it is said to be possible to bake an angel food cake that will be brown both on top and bottom.

The lesson will begin at 1:30 o'clock. Mrs. Border will devote about an hour to the baking of Scotch short bread. There will also be the usual discussion of gas consumption, the proper amount of heat for baking any particular food in order to bring out its full flavor, how long spinach should be left without water, and other questions that may be brought out by those attending. Mrs. Border will also conduct a lesson on Saturday afternoon beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

OPENS OWN DRUG STORE

Thomas E. Jones, who has been clerking in the Roberts & Echols drug store for some time, will open a drug store about February 15 at Colorado and Verdugo. He is well known in Glendale, and will doubtless do a good business.

Society LODGES - CLUBS - CHURCHES

EPISCOPALIANS MISS BROCKWAY RALLY AT THE PARISH DINNER MAKES DEBUT AS PIPE ORGANIST

Despite Storm Social Hall Is Well Filled by the Parishioners

The parish dinner of St. Mark's Episcopal church held in the social hall last night was attended by 100 Episcopalians, despite the rain-storm. The dinner was in charge of Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, who was assisted by Mrs. Frank England, Mrs. Walton Parre, Mrs. Helen Campbell, Miss Ellen Williams, Miss Frances Packer, Mrs. J. J. Gaulrapp, Mrs. Gaier and Mrs. Jenkins. At the head table were seated Rev. Philip Kemp, rector, and members of the vestry and their wives. After dinner Mrs. Holbrook introduced Rev. Kemp, the vestry members and presidents of the various church organizations, including Mrs. A. A. Bassett, president of the Guild; Mrs. John Potter, president of the Women's Auxiliary; Al Sullivan, president of the choir.

Regrets were received from Bishop Johnson and Bishop Stevens, who were unable to be present. The long tables were decorated with marigolds and cornflowers. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Gaulrapp, Miss Potter and Miss Taylor.

ROUND TABLE HAS FIRST MEETING

A meeting of the "Round Table" consisting of the presidents of Glendale business organizations and representatives of the city, held its first luncheon at the Glen Inn Monday noon, January 29th. At this time a policy determining the function of the organization was discussed.

It was decided that the "Round Table" should consist of the mayor of the city, president of the chamber of commerce, president of the Credit Men's association and presidents of the National and International luncheon clubs of the city.

At this the first and preliminary meeting, only points bearing on the formation of the "Round Table" were discussed and no matters of a general nature were taken up. The next meeting will be subject to call of the chairman of the organization.

ATHLETIC CLUB GIRLS HIKE

Members of the Girls' Athletic Club to the number of fifteen, accompanied by Miss Florence Knight, athletic coach, made a week-end hike to Mount Wilson, leaving here early Saturday morning. The night was spent in cabins on the mountain top and after a frolic in the snow they returned Sunday reaching here late in the afternoon.

METHODIST WOMEN TO DISCUSS THE NEGRO

At the all-day meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Methodist Church to be held tomorrow the program, beginning at 2 o'clock, will be on the subject "The Negro." Some negro spirituals will be sung. Dr. E. O. Thayer, for whom the Thayer Home at Atlanta, Georgia, was named, will give an address.

SEVENTY-FIVE ATTEND GILLETTS TENT DANCE

The dance given last night by the members of Mary Jane Gillett tent, Daughters of Veterans, was attended by seventy-five people. A large advance sale of tickets was made, however, and a neat sum realized, according to Mrs. Queen Danner, who had charge of arrangements and wishes to thank those who patronized the dance.

COLORADO P. T. A. TO HOLD REGULAR MEETING

The regular meeting of the Colorado Street Parent-Teacher association, of which Mrs. E. S. McKee is president, will be held at the school Thursday afternoon at three o'clock. The patriotic program will be in charge of Mrs. Scharnikov, and will include piano numbers by Rebecca Brant, a talk by representative of the American Legion, violin number by Charles Cronkite, patriotic song by children of the sixth grade, presentation of flags by Miss Ida Waite, talk by the school nurse, Miss Tupper, and unison singing of "America." The small children will be cared for during the meeting and during the afternoon refreshments will be served.

THURSDAY CLUB TO HOLD FORUM MEETING

Local problems will be discussed at the regular open forum meeting of the Thursday Afternoon club, to be held at the K. of P. hall, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The speakers will include V. M. Hollister, president of Glendale Community Service, and George B. Karr, chairman of the civics committee of the chamber of commerce.

BROADWAY TEACHERS ARE ENTERTAINED AT LUNCHEON

The teachers of the Broadway school and Mrs. Adell Wichert, president of the Parent-Teacher Association were entertained at luncheon Tuesday in the teachers' room at the school by the mothers of children in the A6 grade, who will soon enter the intermediate school. Decorations of lilies and poinsettias were used.

Young Glendale Student Takes Leading Part in Recital at Pasadena

A youthful Glendale pipeorganist, Mildred Brockway, who lives with her parents at 221 N. Highland avenue, had the honor of taking the leading part in an organ recital given at All Saints' Episcopal church, Pasadena, last Thursday evening under the auspices of the American Guild of Organists, Southern California chapter. Miss Brockway played the following pieces: First Movement of the Second Sonata (J. S. Bach); First Movement of the Fourth Sonata (F. Mendelssohn); Capriccio (E. Lemaire); Grand Coeur, in B flat (Th. DuBois). She was highly complimented on her playing.

The other participants in the recital were Mrs. Ella Warriner Mills, of Pasadena, and Percy Chase Miller, of Philadelphia.

Miss Brockway had her earlier musical education in Paris. She is slated to take part in another organ recital in Los Angeles at an early date.

MRS. ECKLES LEAVING FOR NEW YORK STATE

Mrs. Lulu E. Eckles of Kenneth road, this city, is leaving this week for New York city. She is the president of the Women's Advertising club of Los Angeles and by no means unknown in the east, where she has been invited to speak before the convention of the National Retail Dry Goods association which is to meet February 7. She is to present the woman's viewpoint on retail store advertising, her announced theme being "These Many New Pathways in Her Brain."

The convention will represent the advertising group of the National Retail Dry Goods association and is said to be the principal functioning body of retail advertisers. It meets annually and its successful endeavor has been to raise the standards of retail stores of the United States, first in integrity, each member being pledged to give honest service in the matter of "truth in advertising."

The association of which Mrs. Eckles is the head in 1918 made a "Survey on the Media Which Appeal to Women," which won the plaudits of advertising and merchandising organizations all over the United States and beyond.

Mrs. Eckles will be away for a month or more studying advertising conditions on the east coast.

LUNCHEON TO BE SERVED AT CHURCH

The regular meeting of St. Mark's Guild of the Episcopal church will be held tomorrow with Mrs. A. A. Bassett in charge. A business luncheon will be served to the public from 11:30 o'clock until 1.

MRS COLLINS ENTERTAINS FOR HER LITTLE DAUGHTER

Mrs. James Collins of 708 South Granada street, entertained at her home Monday afternoon for her little daughter Irah, in celebration of the latter's tenth birthday anniversary. She was the recipient of many gifts, among which was a doll nearly as large as herself. Mrs. Collins was assisted in entertaining by Dr. Mabel Chamberlain and Mrs. R. C. Graham. During the afternoon refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Decorations of pink carnations were used throughout the house.

The following guests accepted Mrs. Collins' hospitality: Margaret Colquhoun, Jessie Majors, Frances Lord, Barbara Muhlen, Eleanor Flynn, Elizabeth Burton, Dorothy Alexander, Wanda Billings, Anita Billings, Jeannie Leitch, Marion Boudsbush, Frances Rudworth, Lillian Kilgannon, Ruth Mitchell, Virginia Rutter, George Rutter, Gordon Graham, and Stuart Graham.

GLENDALIANS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER TUESDAY'S CONCERT

Among those who "listened in" at the Glendale night radio concert broadcasted from the Los Angeles Times radio station last night by Glendale artists were Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Smith of 747 West Milford street. They are very enthusiastic over all of the numbers given and particularly enjoyed the humorous selections of Harry James and the fine singing of F. J. W. Henry. Mrs. Smith states that the voices of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Girard carried wonderfully.

HUNGARIAN VIRTUOSO IS QUEST OF MRS. CLEOPHAS

Nyiregyhazi, the phenomenal young Hungarian pianist, whose recent Los Angeles concerts have been of sensational beauty, was a guest Sunday evening of Mrs. E. Cleophas and daughter, Miss Gertrude Cleophas, of 337 North Central avenue. The other guests of the evening included Miss Gladys Homer, Miss Esther Homer, William Homer, Frank Geritz, Miss Esther Crandall, Miss Jeannette Abel and William Justema. On Saturday night Mr. Geritz entertained Mr. Nyiregyhazi with a dinner, later attending the Symphony concert. Mr. Nyiregyhazi will return Thursday to New York and Boston.

WE WOMEN

By BETTY BRAINERD

HAIR-SPLITTING AND HAPPY MARRIAGES

A good man, so the song goes, is hard to find, but we need not necessarily accept the statement of the author as a fact. Perhaps it would be better to say some women are hard to satisfy.

We strive desperately for an ideal, but hair-splitting does not contribute to the realization of our aims. We should, of course, look before leaping. Even then it might develop that we did not see clearly enough. Love is blind, but hair-splitting is not a cure. It is one of the most virulent of irritants.

Socrates had all the virtues of the human mind, but Xanthippe made married life impossible for him. She was a failure as a sweet heart. She was too exacting and critical. She was a scold. She was a hair-splitter.

Here was a case of a good man gone wrong. Socrates abided with Xanthippe, but the law does not expect all men to be philosophers. There is a well-defined limit to compatibility. Nevertheless, Xanthippe served Socrates a purpose.

"Those who wish to become skilful horsemen," he once said, "get the most spirited horses rather than the gentlest; for they suppose that if they can bridge these they will be able to deal with any horse." So I, wishing to mingle among men and deal with them, have taken this woman, knowing well that if I can endure her I can easily get along with any man at all."

It may be that Socrates himself was responsible for Xanthippe's attitude toward him. It is known that Socrates was married twice. An authentic biographer is unable thunderously, and in her anger rained a pail of dirty water on him. Socrates was a true philosopher even in a situation of this sort.

"It generally rains after thunder," he said, mopping his face.

S. P. TO GRANT RATES

Round trip excursion rates will be placed in effect by the Southern Pacific company for Washington's Birthday, the company announced today.

The reduced fares, which will be in effect between all points on Southern Pacific lines where the one-way fare does not exceed $25, will be one and one-half fare for the round trip.

Tickets will be on sale February 21 and 22, with final return limit February 23.

PURELY PERSONAL

Earl Murch of 215 East Garfield avenue was taken ill suddenly yesterday afternoon and was rushed to the Glendale Research Hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. Dr. Swift was in charge.

Mrs. Helen Knappen Scripps of 130 1/2 North Kenwood street had as her guest Tuesday Mrs. John H. Wheeler of Arcadia. Mrs. Wheeler and Mrs. Scripps were co-workers on the faculty of the Albion College of Albion, Michigan, and both are members of the Delta Gamma Sorority.

New Map of Glendale

The new "Security" Map of Glendale is ready for distribution.

This map has been carefully revised and brought down-to-date. It covers not only Glendale, but Burbank, Eagle Rock and Annandale as well.

The Security's Automobile Road Map is printed on the back in two colors, showing the good roads to every city, town, resort, canyon or locality from Chatsworth to Banning.

Copies will be cheerfully given to all who ask at our Glendale Branch.

"Lost" British Colonel Found in Ranks

Col. T. E. Lawrence

Colonel T. E. Lawrence was one of the outstanding romantic heroes of the World war. Almost an Arab by inclination, he roused the Arabs against the Turks and waged the most picturesque campaign of the whole war. After the war the student soldier disappeared. Now he has been found, as pictured here, enlisted in the aircraft service as a private soldier, using the name of Ross. His identity was discovered when an inspection officer came across his wonderful library, in ten tongues. He said he had "joined up" to get local color and to find time for his literary pursuits.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

SAVING money is a matter of determination, not of income. Many save money out of the meager incomes and in the face of great odds.

Many others, with handsome incomes, waste their golden years without putting aside a single penny from one year's end to the next.

It is one of the truths of life that those who cannot learn to save on a small income will not do so on a large one.

In an obscure corner of a prominent newspaper reference was made recently to a New York elevated guard who, out of his modest earnings, had during 25 years saved enough to give him a fixed income of $1,000 a year from his investments.

This is but one instance in thousands upon thousands of cases where substantial sums have been built up from slow, patient savings. In no phase of life is the spirit of procrastination more harmful than in the matter of thrift. Waiting for more propitious times before beginning to save has brought about the ultimate failure of many a well meaning person.

It is with honest intent that many say, "When I begin making more money I will begin saving." But this is not the argument. Success comes through making the right no matter what the obstacles may be.

Do not pigeonhole your good intentions. The saving of a penny today is of more value than the possibility of saving a dollar at some future time. Most things in life are gained through determination. And this applies with special emphasis to the matter of saving money.

Fighting and B. B. Money-Grabbing Games

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—"Save boxing" and "For the good of baseball" are two of the best chestnuts of modern times. They are slogans for campaigns that have nothing to do with sport.

Boxing and major baseball are not sports—they are highly commercialized amusements. If boxing hasn't sufficient virtue to save itself it ought to be lost. When club owners ask the public to do something "for the good of baseball" it is just the same as appealing to the public, "Come and help me make more money."

Baseball isn't the national pastime and neither is boxing. If both were to be stopped by law the nation would go ahead just the same. More real citizens by far are engaged in playing tennis, golf, billiards, handball and other forms of amusement than in baseball or boxing.

Boxing is a good form of entertainment when it is considered merely as such. The trouble is that those interested in boxing for what they get out of it try to make it appear as something else.

Professional boxing is nothing but prize fighting and the men engaged in professional boxing are prize fighters, no matter by what other name they are called.

To refer to boxing as the "manly art of self-defense" is silly and it is done for the purpose of covering up what it really is.

Very few professional boxers could take care of themselves in a hand-to-hand encounter. Few of them showed an inclination toward real fighting when they had the opportunity in 1917. Their idea of self-defense was to stay at home.

Most of them went to training camps as instructors. One of them, a world's champion up to the present time, was discharged from a cantonment in Ohio because he would not obey the few regulations that the camp commandant laid down for him.

What good the American soldier got out of learning to box when he went into action is a mooted question. Boxers say that the instructions made the American army and won the war.

It is doubtful, however, if Sergeants Woodfill or York were boxing champions of their company or if they even knew how to block or lead. Both knew how to shoot, and that's what was really necessary when they got down to it.

TIMBER SALE IN INYO FOREST

Five million feet of Jeffrey pine and red and white fir in the Owens River Valley region, Inyo National forest, has been sold to the Hess Bros. Lumber company of Bishop, Calif., according to announcement by the San Francisco headquarters of the United States Forest Service.

The price paid per 1000 board feet was $2.50 for pine and $1 for fir. This timber forms a part of the Mammoth working circle and will be cut under scientific forestry methods which insure the permanent growth and protection of the forest. The lumber produced will all be used locally in the agricultural industries of the valley.

Children Are Royally Entertained On United States Steamships

Children's Party on S. S. America.

New York Day Naturally with the children being amused in this manner their parents are able to enjoy the voyage to the fullest. It is not likely, however, that they get any more pleasure out of it than the kiddies, who, back home again, have something to talk about for months to come.

The "President Harding" features a children's dining room and the interest taken by Chief Steward "Billy" Lynn, in satisfying the palates and sea-going appetites of his young charges is vast. It is a very ill child indeed who misses a meal while aboard that vessel.

Lynn always has at least one special dinner party every trip and if some youngster is so fortunate as to have a birthday while at sea, he or she is the guest of honor.

For these occasions the dining room is specially decorated. Souvenirs are at every plate and a particularly appealing dinner is served, with menu cards bearing the name of host or hostess and those of the juvenile guests. These are always highly treasured by the youngsters.

Deserts and pastries are made in odd molds which make them really too good to be eaten—though they always are and the affair takes a prominent place in each child's mind as something to be always remembered.

It is small wonder that Lynn is regarded as a cross between Santa Claus and the king of entertainers by the children after they have dined upon the goodies he provides in a room resembling fairyland.

Stewards and stewardesses aboard these liners are specially detailed to look out for the wants of the youngsters and take great pleasure in their work.

The America has a special children's playroom, where games of every description are played, under the direction of a steward who is an artist in amusing children of every age. Special dances are held every trip, with the ship's orchestra in attendance.

ALEXANDRIA TO POULTRY FUTURE MARK PASSING OF FEB. 22 PREDICTED FOR ROSCOE

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Jan. 31 (United Press).—Alexandria is preparing to revive the spirit of colonial Virginia in giving one of the biggest parades in her history on Washington's birthday this year.

This city has been chosen on account of the close relation of its history and that of "The Father of His Country."

All civic organizations of this quaint old city will participate in the parade, beside thousands who will come from all over the nation and the world. Military bands, civic bands and military companies will come from the many camps immediately surrounding the city.

Washington, Governor E. Lee Trinkle, chief executive of the Old Dominion, will head the parade, accompanied by his guard of honor, a picked company of the famous Richmond Light Infantry Blues.

The parade will follow the course of the old streets over which George Washington travelled daily on his way to and from his office. It will pass beneath the shadow of Shooter's Hill upon which a national memorial is being built in his honor by his brothers in Masonry.

More than 2,000,000 Masons of America have contributed to the fund for the building of this memorial upon the hill that was originally chosen as the site for the Capitol of the Nation. This plan, however, was abandoned when Washington's objection, which was based upon the fact that he owned the land.

Christ Church is another of the historic points along the line of the parade. It was in this church Washington worshipped and served as a vestryman.

Alexandria has been chosen as the place for the holding of this national celebration not only because the very atmosphere of its historic setting lends solemnity to the occasion, but also because of its ideal situation. Situated as it is midway between Washington and Mt. Vernon, it is just halfway between a nation's capital and a nation's shrine.

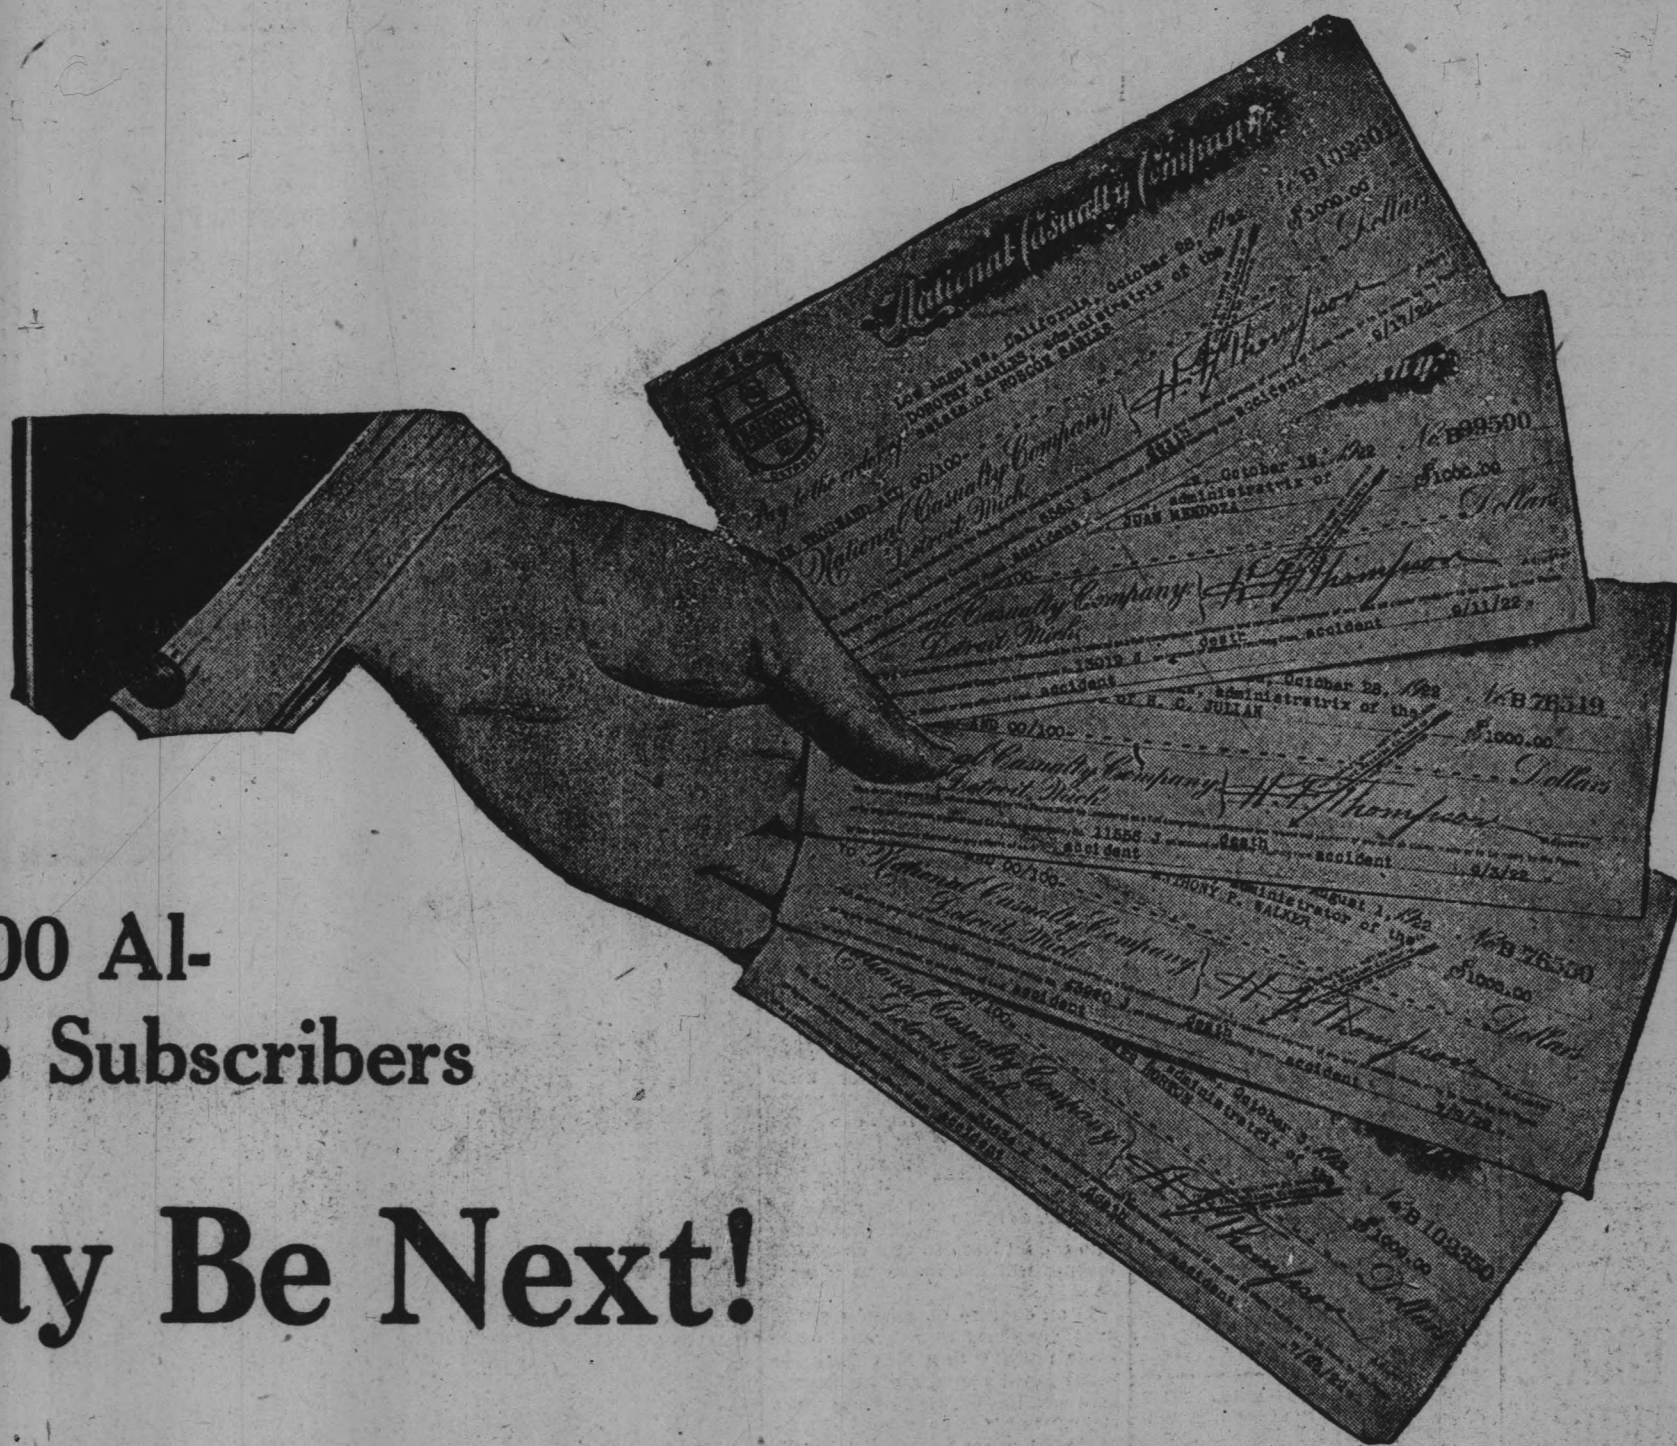

Many times George Washington drilled his little companies of soldiers on the self-same cobblestoned streets

DISCREPANCY OF $29,000,000 IN REPORT OF COUNTY AUDITOR SHOWN BY SCHOOLS COMMITTEE

Reports to Superintendent Keppel Show Huge Admitted Errors in Report to Grand Jury to Support Contention of Increased School Expense

600 PER CENT INCREASED COST REFUTED

Committee Declares Offense Against Public Morals Committed Through Deception of Public, Grand Jury, Supervisors and County Efficiency Body

Following is the full text of the report submitted by the committee of eleven appointed by the Los Angeles County Teachers' Institute to investigate the figures furnished by the office of the county auditor to the board of supervisors, on which the supervisors based a published statement that the cost of school maintenance in the county had increased 600 per cent.

The report was submitted to the supervisors Monday morning with County Auditor H. A. Payne present.

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 29, 1923.
To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles County, California

Gentlemen:
The grand jury of 1922, in December, made the following school report:

"County Superintendent of Schools:
"Your committee would like to furnish you the following figures, obtained from the auditor's office, without comment, except to say that if we can get a general discussion of the situation in the public press it will be enlightening, and probably result in some good:

Year—	Expense	Average
1918-1919	$ 9,515,788.85	107,405
1919-1920	13,239,963.02	144,000
1920-1921	20,276,023.17	217,000
1921-1922	28,277,469.21	300,000
1922-1923	52,595,738.38	556,000
Increase in attendance 1921-1922		60%
over 1918-1919		600%
Increase in expenses 1922-1923		600%
over 1918-1919		600%

"This does not include $5,657,559.88 for interest and bond redemption, which makes a total of $58,252,298.26 appropriated for this year."

"The comparisons contained in the above grand jury report were widely published and commented on, much to the discredit of the boards of education, school trustees and school administrators, and to the cause of public education in Los Angeles."

The teachers of Los Angeles county, in annual institute assembled, December 19, 1922, accepted the challenge of the grand jury inviting a "general discussion of the situation in the public press," by causing the appointment of a committee composed of representatives of public education in this county, whose names are hereto attached, to investigate the figures and comparisons set out in the grand jury's report, and this action was taken in the hope that an investigation of the grand jury's report "will be enlightening, and probably result in good."

This schools committee has held a number of sessions for the purpose of arriving at a true statement of facts. To this end, we employed Mr. Walter K. Mitchell, a certified public accountant, to check the school figures which were compiled by the county auditor from the school budgets of the various school districts, and from other data on file in his office, and presented by him to the grand jury. In checking the figures of the county auditor, Mr. Mitchell was assisted by Mr. A. J. Cox of the county auditor's office. In addition to this means of ascertaining the facts, the schools committee heard testimony from representatives of the grand jury, the board of supervisors and county efficiency committee as to verbal representations made by County Auditor Payne in connection with this report. Such testimony will be available to the board of supervisors on request in verification of any representations made in this report.

The report of Accountant Walter K. Mitchell, dated January 15, 1923, certified to and signed by H. A. Payne, county auditor, is herewith included as a part of this report, and is as follows:

WALTER K. MITCHELL
Certified Public Accountant
611 H. W. Hellman Bldg.,
Los Angeles
January 15, 1923.

Hon. Mark Keppel,
County Supt. of Schools,
Los Angeles, Calif.
Dear Sir: We have jointly verified the annexed statement showing the estimated cost of the schools of Los Angeles county for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1922, and ending June 30, 1923, and we hereby certify that, in our opinions, the same is true and correct.

Respectfully submitted,
WALTER K. MITCHELL,
Certified Public Accountant.
H. A. PAYNE
County Auditor.

From the report of the accountant, Walter K. Mitchell, countersigned by County Auditor Payne, and above referred to, and from the testimony adduced before the schools committee, we find

1. That the figures furnished by Auditor Payne to the grand jury, and to the public in the so-called "Tax Payers' Guide of 1922, relative to the cost of maintaining and operating the public schools of Los Angeles county for the fiscal year 1922-23, are incorrect, unreliable, and prejudicial to the cause of public education.

2. That County Auditor Payne conveyed to the grand jury and to others the impression that the cost of operating the public schools of Los Angeles county had increased from $9,515,788.85 in the fiscal year 1918-19 to $52,595,738.38 for the fiscal year 1922-23, an increase of 600% during this period, as he charged in his report to the grand jury.

3. That County Auditor Payne conveyed to the grand jury and to others the impression that this sum of $52,595,738.38 was the budget cost of the maintenance and operation of the public schools of the county, and from unimpeachable testimony taken before the schools committee, we find that County Auditor Payne repeatedly stated that this sum did not contain one dollar of school bond money.

4. That the true estimated cost of the maintenance and operation of the public schools of Los Angeles county for the fiscal year 1922-23 is only $23,246,019.10, as now admitted in the report of Walter K. Mitchell, certified public accountant, dated January 15th, and countersigned by H. A. Payne, county auditor.

5. That County Auditor Payne included in his report to the grand jury, and in the official publication known as the "Tax Payers' Guide," an item amounting to $25,239,302.48 for bonds and building purposes in his total of $52,595,738.38, whereas his report to the grand jury mentions an item of only $5,657,559.88 "for interest and bond redemption." This error is admitted by County Auditor Payne in the report of Walter K. Mitchell, herein referred to. Much damage to the cause of public education has thereby been wrought in the public mind.

6. Your especial attention is directed to an item of $9,303,148.92 under the caption "Auditor's Tax Payers' Guide in excess of true estimates," contained in the report of Accountant Walter K. Mitchell, and admitted by County Auditor Payne. Here we find an inconceivable error of $9,303,148.92 created in Mr. Payne's report to the grand jury, by the simple process of the duplication of figures. Associating this item with the repeated declarations of County Auditor Payne that the sums reported to the grand jury, whereby he attempted to show that the cost of public education had increased 600% in the past five years, did not contain a single dollar of school bond money, is it not evident that there was an attempt to make a case of extravagance against the public schools of the county, and to use the grand jury of the county as the instrument for that purpose?

7. In arriving at the true "estimated amount to be expended for ordinary maintenance and operation" for the fiscal year 1922-23 as based on budget requirements, it was necessary for the public accountant to make the following deductions from the total amount reported by County Auditor Payne to the grand jury, to-wit:

Payne report to grand jury as "Total Appropriation for this year"	$58,252,298.26
Accountant's deductions necessary to true statement, admitted by County Auditor Payne in the accountant's report of Jan. 15th, as follows:
"Auditor's Tax Payers' Guide in excess of true estimates"	$ 9,303,148.92
"Deduct balances desired June 30, 1923, not to be expended this year"	463,827.76
"Deduct to be expended for bonds and interest, buildings and equipment"	25,239,302.48
True Maintenance Estimates	$23,246,019.10

Here, then, we have a discrepancy of $35,006,279.16. Of this amount, Auditor Payne accounts for $5,657,559.88 in his report to the grand jury as needed for "interest and bond redemptions," leaving admitted errors in the report of the county auditor to the grand jury to the amount of $29,348,719.28, made necessary to support a contention that the "increase in expenses" of the schools of the county from the fiscal year 1918-19 to the fiscal year 1922-23 is 600%.

8. County Auditor Payne compared the estimated expenditures for 1922-23 for maintenance purposes with the maintenance expenditures of 1918-19, and the increased percentage of cost he compared with the increased percentage of attendance based on attendance for 1921-22. If comparisons of increased cost are to be lodged against comparisons of increased attendance, they should be made to cover the same years. The attendance for 1922-23 is yet an unknown quantity. However, the probable facts may be very closely approached. The increase in average daily attendance for the past four years averages 15%. There are now at least 35,000 more pupils in the schools of the county than there were a year ago. We believe it fair to estimate an increase of 15% for the current school year. This would make an increase of 75% in average daily attendance during the five years under consideration, as against 60% in average daily attendance set out in County Auditor Payne's report to the grand jury, and used as a basis of comparison against expenses for 1922-23.

9. We now have arrived at a fair and just basis for making comparisons in increased cost of school expenses based on increase of average daily attendance for the five-year period between 1918-19 and 1922-23. Taking $23,246,019.10 as the total cost of maintenance, now admitted by County Auditor Payne, for the fiscal year 1922-23, although all of this sum will not be expended, and comparing this sum with the maintenance cost in 1918-19, we find that it represents an increase of 144% for maintenance cost for the five-year period ending June 30, 1923, as against an increase of 75% in average daily attendance for the same period. That is to say, while attendance has increased 75%, cost of maintenance and operation has increased 144%, making a difference of 69% covering this five-year period. During this same period, the increase in the cost of everything which the schools must buy reached its peak, and the increase in the salaries of teachers and other employees, due to the increased cost of living, was made. Is a difference of 69% of cost over attendance excessive for this period? Will this increase in cost not compare favorably with the increase in cost of other items in city and county government, "in public utilities as well as in private business? There is a vast difference between an increase of 144% in cost in five years on the basis of an increase of 75% in average daily attendance, and the preposterous, unreliable and misleading figures given to the grand jury, wherein an increase of 600% in cost in comparison with an increase of 60% in average daily attendance was alleged.

10. In conclusion, the schools committee finds that a great offense has been committed against public morals whereby the grand jury, members of the board of supervisors, the county efficiency committee, and public opinion generally, have been deceived. The board of supervisors and the people have a right to believe that full faith and confidence may be reposed in such an important official document as "The Tax Payers' Guide," and yet the discrepancies admitted in the school reports herein referred to, leave the public without any basis upon which to rest their confidence. Our public schools are the foundation upon which the security of all government must rest. An unwarranted attack upon their integrity based upon false and unreliable figures and statements, is an act so inimical to the public welfare that it must not be allowed to pass unrebuked by an enlightened public opinion.

The failure of County Auditor Payne to submit correct figures and to give a true and intelligent analysis of public school expenditures, together with his insistent statement that the alleged sum of $58,252,298.26 contained no building money except $5,657,559.88 of money "for redemption of school bonds and for payment of interest," deceived the grand jury, deceived members of the board of supervisors, and deceived the public as to the cost of maintaining the people's schools.

We respectfully refer all these matters to the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county in the belief that the people of Los Angeles county will faithfully look to the board of supervisors to take such action in the premises as becomes the importance, character and dignity of a county office responsible to the board of supervisors and to the people for the integrity of all financial data upon which the administration of the school and county government must rest.

Very respectfully submitted,

SPECIAL DAYS AT ORANGE SHOW ANNOUNCED

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 31.—Dates for special days at the National Orange Show, to be held here from February 16 to 26, were announced today by R. H. Mack, manager of the exposition. The Southern California Editorial association holds the position of honor on the program and will have their day February 17, the day following the opening of the exposition by Gov. F. W. Richardson.

It is expected that Gov. Richardson will remain in San Bernardino overnight to participate in the activities of the newspaper men of the Southland. More than 250 editors of California newspapers are expected to attend.

Wednesday, February 21, has been set as Kiwanis day; February 22 for the Lions' club, and February 24 has been set for the Rotary clubs. All of the organizations are making arrangements to attend the exposition in large delegations.

Arrangements are being made to hold a Motion Picture day, probably Saturday, February 17, when noted stars of the silver sheet will attend.

The date set for the holding of the Citrus Institute is February 20. Several important addresses have been planned, and among them are talks by I. G. McBeth, J. A. Prizer, J. D. Culbertson and W. M. Merz. Additional special days will be announced before the opening of the show.

DANCING CLASS PARTY
Mrs. Nanno Woods has issued invitations for an informal dancing party in honor of the graduating pupils of her Thursday evening adult dancing class, to be held Thursday evening of this week, 8 to 11 o'clock. Her next dancing course for adults will begin on Thursday evening, February 22.

Everything Points to the Greatest Spring Demand for Ford Products in Company's History

1,202,517 Ford Cars and Trucks were delivered to retail purchasers in the United States alone during 1922—

Actual deliveries for last month greatly exceeded any previous December in the history of the Ford Motor Company—

It was the ninth consecutive month in which more than 100,000 Ford Cars and Trucks were retailed—keeping the Ford Plants working at capacity to meet dealers' requirements—

In many parts of the country dealers are already finding it necessary to specify later delivery dates on certain types because there are no reserve stocks to draw from—

Commercial users, business houses and farmers, anticipating their future requirements, are placing orders and taking delivery of Ford Cars, Trucks and Fordson Tractors to insure against delay—

Everything points to the biggest shortage of Ford Products this Spring that has ever existed—

The only way you can be sure of obtaining delivery of a Ford Car, Truck or Fordson Tractor is to list your order immediately—

We have given you these facts as they actually exist so that if you are planning to purchase a Ford Car, Truck or Tractor for use this Spring or Summer, you can list your order now and take advantage of our dealer's first opportunity to make delivery.

"When You Buy Advertising, You Buy Circulation"

'Tailor-Made' Advertising

One great fact must be remembered by those who have made the decision to advertise. The advertising plan must fit the business to which it is applied. There are no ready-to-wear advertising plans; each one must be tailor made.

The purpose of advertising is to increase business and not to relieve any one of his arduous duties. The manufacturer's salesman who regards advertising as a substitute for his own efforts has missed the point. His efforts are needed more than ever to support the advertising and put it across. His reward is larger sales.

Likewise, the merchant who chooses the advertised brands because they are "soft and easy" selling, has overlooked the essential idea. Certainly they sell easier; but this is not the big important truth. Rather, he should see that the manufacturer's advertising is an instrument put into his hands for increasing his volume and speeding up his turnover. Looking at the matter in this light, he will bend every effort to co-operate with the advertising and seek to make it pay him additional profits.

Advertising is not a form of perpetual motion that goes on forever without human assistance. The biggest problem any man has to settle after he has determined to advertise, and decided how to advertise, is this: How can I use my advertising so as to get the most out of it? Without close-linked co-operation it dissipates its force into air.

It must be hitched on to a business properly. Then it must be utilized with intelligence. When these conditions are fulfilled it does a type of work for which there is no efficient substitute.

Finishing Touches Being Applied by Contractors
Show New North Brand Structure Will Reflect
Great Skill of Local Artists in Painting,
Plumbing, Decorating, Tile and Architectural Work

Jensen's Palace Grand Shops, 133 North Brand boulevard, is nearing completion. As the finishing touches are being put to the different parts of the structure, this arcade shopping center, the first to make its appearance in Glendale, is along every line stepping farther and farther ahead of anything that has thus far been seen in Southern California.

The excellence of this building naturally results from the selections by the owners of the highest class building firms in this locality. A building so wonderful as this could result only from the combined efforts of artists along the various lines of work. The painting, the plumbing, the decorating, the tile work, the architectural work, and every other kind of work represented, were done by men who are foremost in their particular lines in Southern California.

One of the outstanding features of the building is the tile and marble work. This was installed by the Glendale Tile and Marble company of 107 East Doran street. On this job Joe Fortunato, proprietor of this tile company, has done a piece of work of which he may well feel proud. It could hardly be improved upon.

Coker & Taylor, one of the leading plumbing firms of this valley, executed the plumbing work. The very latest plumbing features were installed and this firm, also, feels that this is the best work it has done since it opened its doors here.

The painting work in this building was done by E. A. Bode, 133 North Orange street. This work is up to the high standard set by Mr. Bode when he started in business in Glendale 14 years ago, which means that it could not be improved upon. Mr. Bode is an artist in his line and he does all work at a figure that is beyond criticism.

All electric wiring in the building was strung by the Glendale Electric company, 132 North Brand boulevard. An important part of any building is the electrical work, and in selecting the Glendale Electric company to do its work the management of this building knew that it was taking no chances. "There's nothing like knowing that you are right," said Bill Bode this morning.

The interior decorations or art work in this building are among the finest in Southern California. This work is truly artistic, and probably surpasses anything seen here up to this time. It was done by the Robert E. Powers studios, of 604 South Western avenue, Los Angeles.

The very latest thing in the way of floor covering—linoleum and linoleum—has been installed in this building by the Van Fleet Freer company, 420 South Spring street, Los Angeles. The work of this firm could not be improved upon and the owners of the building are entirely satisfied with the class of material and workmanship.

The elaborate electric sign, which will be the guiding "star" to the people of Glendale for the months to come, was installed in this building by the Greenwood Electric Sign company, 1942 South Los Angeles street, Los Angeles. This will be the sign of quality, as every store in the building will carry only the very highest types of materials in its line.

In the designing of this building E. B. Meinardus, architect, of 1506 Orange street, Los Angeles, has produced a work of art that will long stand as a monument to his architectural skill. Each separate store is a work of art, and the building as a whole is far in advance of anything thus far seen in Southern California.

ELECTRICAL MEN START UNION IN DISTRICT

About twenty electrical workers of this valley met in the Knights of Pythias hall at the corner of Park and Brand, Monday night, the intention being to start a movement that would result in the organization of all the electrical men of the valley. Considerable business was transacted, the plans along which the organization will proceed were discussed and the general trend of the meeting was very encouraging.

The next meeting of this organization will be held next Monday night in the same hall. An invitation is being extended to all the electrical workers of the valley to be present. At this session the organization will apply for its charter. The meeting is being called by F. L. Patterson, 513 North Orange street, Glendale.

WILL McADOO BE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE?

William G. McAdoo, Senators Carter Glass, David Walsh & Pat Harrison

William Gibbs McAdoo is coming into the limelight more strongly than ever as a probable candidate for the Presidency on the Democratic ticket. The son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson, the former Secretary of the Treasury and Railway Administrator, is now living in California, but he recently visited Washington at the same time as William Jennings Bryan for a series of conferences with Democratic leaders. He is shown here with United States Senators Carter Glass, David Walsh and Pat Harrison.

Truths in Epigram

Nothing is so rash, and the counsels of pusillanimity, very rarely put off, whilst they are always sure to aggravate, the evils from which they would fly.—Burke.

Flinch not, neither give up nor despair, if the achieving of every act in accordance with right principle is not continuous with thee.—Marcus Aurelius.

PERMANENCY OF MARRIAGE

Recently the management of a theater invited the presence of men and women who had been married fifty years or over. More than 250 responded. A wholesome and happy bevy of elderly folk they were. They were still alert, admitting their ages, but denying that the burden of the passing seasons rested heavily upon them. They declined to display the attitude of mind that seems to be expected of the venerable. They were not only in the world, but still of it. With clear eye and high heart they were looking forward. It is to be assumed that the average age of the guests was about 75, as there were some close to the century mark, and many at the door of the nineties. In the lot was not a single one inclined to repine, as he or she recalled the experiences along the road that had been traveled, or that lacked a keen interest in the affairs of today and the coming of the morrow.

Since so many responded to an invitation not widely heralded, it is probable that a full showing of the couples fifty years or more married would have been much greater numerically.

It is pleasing, and perhaps even enlightening, to be made to realize that the old-fashioned type of marriage still has adherents and open advocates. In many a home are men and women living in accordance with the pledges given at the altar. Those of them who have not had fifty years of union, hope to have it before the end. Such quiet men and women do not figure largely in publicity. They were not married for the sake of cutting a splurge. They had no thought that if any disagreement arose they could have easy recourse to the divorce court.

The couples that marry for a joke, or a passing whim, and wangle ever after, until the judge does them part, achieve notoriety. There are enough of them so that exposure of their foibles and follies tends to cast a shadow on the institution of matrimony. The idea becomes set up in the minds of careless observers that marriage is a temporary and often an undesirable compact. They do not stop to think of the uncounted domestic circles where love rules and peace abides.

When 250, half a century married, gather on short and informal invitation, they afford visible evidence that elopements to Santa Ana, hasty annulments, quick divorces with acrimonious preliminaries, are not the only elements comprised in the marital relation.

SCHOOL ARMY TRAINING

The Los Angeles County Medical association has adopted resolutions approving the system of military training in the public schools. This lends the support of a dignified professional body to a plan that already had the endorsement of individuals aware of its effect, and therefore conscious of its high value.

The training in question appeals to all the latent manliness of boyhood. It teaches independence, promptness, obedience, and respect for discipline. It is excellent for the health, providing exercise in the open. It imparts proper carriage. No school lad in the military uniform ever is observed slouching along with shoulders drooping.

Opposition to all instruction that has about it the savor of army tactics comes from the extreme pacifist who reaches conclusions without the useful preliminary of thought. Sentiment is employed as a substitute for thought. The idea this mild person seeks to convey is that if a boy knows the duties of a soldier and an officer, he is certain to utilize his knowledge by shouting in advocacy of war, and then sticking a sword into his neighbor. Of course this view merits no consideration.

This country is devoted to peace. It does not want to fight ever again. There is no assurance that it may not have to fight. When such a time comes, if it comes at all, the necessity of having material fit to command troops is too plain to be argued about. This possible emergency is not, however, the basic reason for training schoolboys in military fashion. The benefit chiefly sought is that to the boys themselves, the strengthening of their bodies, and the accentuating of their duties as Americans.

BECLAUDED HONEYMOON

The ex-kaizer and his bride two months are said to be living in different parts of the exile's domicile at Doorn. Clouds have come over the honeymoon. The happiness of which the ex-kaizer sent messages to the world seems to have been fleeting.

The marriage was not of special importance to any but the immediate families. Wilhelm had been shorn of all authority. The titles that still cling to him are merely reminiscent, and have no present meaning. The vague hope that the monarchy, with a Hohenzollern at the head might be restored, went glimmering when in his old age and diminished state, Wilhelm pranced with seeming gaiety into the new marital alliance. His admirers fell away at the spectacle. His relatives withheld approval. His conduct was confirmatory of the general belief that he had fallen into mental decay.

Every biographer has asserted that Wilhelm was a difficult person with whom to get along. While still a royal figure and hedged about with the spurious but effective divinity that is a part of kingship, he was the boss. Nobody dared to question his orders or his moods even when they were indicative of a mind diseased. Apparently in respect of the opinion he held of himself in those days, Wilhelm has changed no whit. It may be imagined that the energy that once ruled a vast domain, turned to the task of ruling of a small household, would disconcert the smooth working of the establishment.

VAGARIES OF THE AFFECTIONS

A Chicago woman, aged nineteen, was brought into court charged with theft. She confessed her guilt, but said that she had committed the crime solely for the purpose of giving her husband an excuse, for divorce. She explained that she did this because she loved the man, and wanted him to be happy. It seems that the happiness he sought, and that the wife desired to bring him, could be attained only by marriage with another girl. Spurning the wife, he had announced his devotion to the other. Instead of resenting his insolence, the wife accepted the desires of the brute as paramount. In order that he might be gratified she was willing to undergo the disgrace of imprisonment. What the poor half-wit female had needed was not a husband but a guardian. What her husband needs, the court expressed the intention of telling him.

The case illustrated the common social fallacy involved when a girl marries a man without having become acquainted with him. This wife, only nineteen when cast aside, must have been very young at the time of the wedding. Her conduct shows she never was fit to be a wife. The conduct of the man stamps him as markedly unfit to be a husband, although not for precisely similar reasons. It is such unions as this that have made the divorce problem so complex. And such unions, of mental and moral unfitness, would not be permitted had laws governing the subject been drawn with reasonable intelligence.

THE GOOSE AND GOLDEN EGG

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Always the greed and the shortsight of men tempt them to kill the Goose that lays the Golden Egg. The goose, economically speaking, is our old and much-abused acquaintance, Capitalism.

The Golden Egg is Employment. We complain a good deal, in the United States and elsewhere, of unemployment. And when men are hungry and cold they are inclined to strike at the rich man who is full of warmth under the impulse of the same kind of reasoning which induces a child to take a hatchet and chop the piano because he bumped into it in the dark and hurt himself. For men in the mass do about as little thinking as children.

Even the slightest reflection ought to advise us that people cannot be employed unless there is somebody to employ them. And that which employs labor is Capital.

Perhaps that is the best definition of Capital. For if Capital does not continue to employ labor, if it ceases to do so and begins to spend itself in other ways, it does not live long.

Capital is absolutely dependent upon labor for its preservation, even as labor is dependent upon Capital.

Where there is no Capital, there is no civilization, for civilization is just another name for society with a surplus. A movement has been recently set on foot to organize the thinkers and business men, or perhaps we had better say the business men who happen to be thinkers, to study the question of taxation. If they go at this with an open mind, it ought to do much good, for nothing is more stupid than the principles upon which taxation is usually carried out.

One of the commonest delusions is that the most equitable tax is one that bears down upon the rich and spares the poor.

This never works out, for the simple reason that it is the rich who employ the poor, and for additional reason that the rich are experts in the art of passing the buck. So that a tax levied upon them is speedily handed on to the laborer.

One of the most iniquitous of taxes is the income tax; for it penalizes the rich man for putting his money into productive industries, and pushes him toward investing in municipal bonds and other non-productive securities.

The very first principle of taxation ought to be that if a man is producing something and giving other people employment, he should be rewarded and not punished.

Of course, there is a deeper principle even than that, the principle that taxation should merely be payment to the government for services rendered by the government to the individual.

This is the north star and ever-fixed pole of any rational system of taxation.

The only trouble with it is that you cannot follow it very far until you come to Single Tax.

If the rationality of Single Tax, however, seems too remote from our present standpoint of confusion, we ought at least to adjust our taxes as to encourage business, and to penalize idle money.

Mr. Reginald McKenna, former chancellor of Great Britain, and now chairman of one of the largest banks in the world, denounced the other day that policy of taxation which would "deprive business men of the stimulus of a reasonable return for their labors. In such conditions," he continued, "business men become stagnant, and stagnation means unemployment."

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

THE WRONG RIGHTED

1. Wrong: "the whereabouts of the man whom the police declare holds the key to the film murder mystery." New York Tribune, February 4, 1922.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

I get a letter from a friend. Or from a business man. Or from somebody who has some reason for writing to me.

Or who writes to me without any particular reason.

Or who wants me to buy something. Books or oil stock or shares in something or other.

He tells me of various things.

Old friends or the weather or the marriages and deaths or the condition of the crops or of the depth of the oil well or the nature of the institution in which I am to buy shares.

It all depends on the kind of letter he writes.

But when he closes his letter he usually sets down the same thing.

"Very truly yours."

And then he signs his name.

That is a custom that has persisted through many years.

From the time letter writing first began.

An assurance of friendship.

Of sincerity.

Of regard for me.

Everybody writes it or something like it.

The books may be some I do not want and could not use.

The oil stock may be worthless.

The shares may be valueless.

The letter may be without sincerity or regard.

But nevertheless the assurance is that the writer is "very truly mine."

Go, songs, for ended is our brief, sweet play;

Go, children of swift joy and tardy sorrow:

And some are sung, and that was yesterday.

And some unsung, and that may be to-morrow.

Go forth; and if it be o'er stony way.

Old joy can lend what newer grief must borrow:

More than mine. More than truly mine. Very truly mine. The utmost in the way of assurance. I am commanded to rely upon the writer for everything in the way of friendship and trust.

Or the writer sets himself down as "faithfully yours."

That ought to mean a lot.

For to be faithful means to be dependable.

To be trustworthy.

To be all in all in the way of confidence.

For faithful means full of faith.

He is full of faith in me.

And I am to be full of faith in him.

He would not deceive me.

He would not sell me anything that is worthless or shoddy or valueless.

He would not tell me an untruth.

He would not hurt me in any way.

For he is "faithfully mine."

I am to have the fullest faith in him.

So he declares before he signs his name.

What splendid words.

How much they mean if they are sincere.

Think of friends and acquaintances and business men who are "very truly mine" or "faithfully mine" or "sincerely mine."

A comforting thought and assurance truly.

It might not be out of place for me to look again when I sign my name to a letter and assure somebody that I am faithful and true and sincere.

Am I?

And if not why should I not be?

Why make use of words meaninglessly?

Why make empty declarations?

Why not be as I say I am—faithful, true and sincere?

What a change it would make in the relations of us, one with another!

Songs of the Poets

Envoy—By Francis Thompson (1859-1907)

Go, songs, for ended is our brief, sweet play;

Go, children of swift joy and tardy sorrow:

And some are sung, and that was yesterday.

And some unsung, and that may be to-morrow.

Go forth; and if it be o'er stony way.

Old joy can lend what newer grief must borrow:

And it was sweet, and that was yesterday.

And sweet is sweet, though purchased with sorrow.

Go, songs, and come not back from your far way:

And if men ask ye why ye smile and sorrow.

Tell them ye grieve, for your hearts know today.

Tell them ye smile, for your eyes know today.

QUEERNESS AND THE QUEER

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Some day when I get time I'm going to write an entirely original work on "Why the Young Leave Home."

Of course, it's natural for them to leave, but civilization abhors all natural things and asks apologies from those who insist on living according to the dictates of nature.

Hence the perpetual effort to explain why the young behave as they do.

This little preachment concerns itself with one reason and one only for the flight of girls and boys from the parental roof tree, and that is the charge of queeriness flung at everybody who differs in mental mould from the family pattern.

Many families sit in the dust year after year to deplore the flight to distant horizons of their more brilliant and useful members.

Only John had remained in his home town and taken up his father's business what a fountain of joy and usefulness he would have been. But he was queer—wanted to paint or dance or do some erratic economic stunt.

Following this statement the visitor is likely to be regaled with an account of the family struggle against John's queeriness.

Or maybe Mary is the queer one, the girl who wounded mother's feelings by refusing to permit mother to open her letters, who preferred study to doing the dishes or who longed to associate with artists and other "disreputable" folk.

But it never occurs to such families to think of their own conduct toward talented members of the group as queer.

They accept a desire to suppress individuality as wholly normal and altogether commendable; and they are pathetically unable to learn that a constant accusation of queeriness will in time drive children to an environment where their desires may be gratified without invoking a charge of freakishness against them.

In the final analysis, however, it is to these queer children that parents and brothers and sisters ultimately turn when life is a mode lands the family in deep waters, for queeriness, as interpreted by conventional families is generally nothing more awful than the ability to think originally and act with vigor and effectiveness.

Individuality will seek expression, at home if possible; but elsewhere if the home is set against it. Folks, if you are going to deal in accusations of queeriness better be certain in the beginning just who is queer. The term is offensive and should be used only to describe abnormal people.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

REALISM IN MOVIES

[Worcester Telegram]

Defeat of the film censorship measure has not stopped attacks on motion pictures. Reformers are still talking. If they were to have their way we would probably never be allowed to see a kiss on the screen, at least not a long kiss.

But in justice to the reformers it should be said that the producers have long made themselves ridiculous in one respect. They go to extremes in realism. For instance they take pains to assure the audiences that the heroine in the story sleeps at night instead of walking out on the lawn or reading by the fire until daylight. They also convince the audience that she sleeps in a bedroom. They also, by some remarkably clever scenes depicting various preliminary maneuvers, almost succeed in convincing the audience that she does not sleep with her clothes on.

There is nothing objectionable in these getting-ready-to-retire scenes. The objection lies in the uncertainty regarding the hero. Night comes as often for him as it does for the heroine. But the hero exhibits an alarming tendency to live his life without sleep.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The charge is made that a lawyer, with connivance of George J. Gould, managed to make unduly large commissions out of the estate of Jay Gould. Should the charges be sustained, the lawyer may be disbarred. It does not appear that anything is likely to happen to George J., although his emotions might not be pleasurable.

Jay Gould probably was the most sinister financial figure this country has known. His operations were unhampered by conscience or by humane impulse. What he wanted, he got, if it was to be had, and as to method, there was no scruple. He was in no sense constructive. He was not a great railroad man of the type of James J. Hill or Edward Harriman. He let the other man do the building. His own work was to wreck that which had been built, and win gains by collecting the debris.

If the Gould fortune was not tainted money, there is no tainted money. It had been collected from many sources by trick and device. No wonder that if a lawyer had a chance to loot it that the temptation was unusually strong. Such a lawyer easily may be conceived as having silenced his qualms by the thought that the stuff wasn't Gould's, save by title having technical, but no moral value.

Nothing could be plainer than the fact that the French intend to carry on in the Ruhr district. They went in without the approval of the allies. Their minds are made up, and the reams of copy paper devoted to explanations to them of what their course ought to be, are wasted.

Discussions in the United States turn very largely upon the attitude of the proponents towards France and Germany regardless of the present situation. If they like France, the French are exactly right. If they like Germany, the French are all wrong.

In this particular matter printer's ink isn't settling a thing.

The opening of a new moving picture house in Los Angeles brought out one of the largest crowds the city had seen for a long time. The house in question is a magnificent structure, its cost well in the millions.

Such an outpouring would seem to answer in the negative the query as to whether the public is tired of moving pictures.

Some months ago a young man permitted his body to be bereft of certain glands, these to be implanted in the tissues of an invalid. The operations were pronounced successful. The invalid died a week after he got the high-priced human fragments, and the man who had given them immediately began a career of crime that he has kept at ever since. The operations, however, retain the classification first bestowed. Glands looted from one frame and budded on another constituted a dual triumph, although one patient died, and the other wishes he had.

The gland operation does not seem to be maintaining its former popularity. The ex-kaizer underwent it, and look at him now.

There is every prospect that an amicable arrangement will be made with England as to payment of its big debt to the United States. As a matter of fact, there never had been reason to doubt a satisfactory agreement. The British have said from the first that they intended to pay in full, and the only Americans to doubt their word were professional haters of Great Britain.

In admitting that it has no plan to straighten out the European tangle, the White House merely confirms an opinion already fairly well established. Neither has anybody else, apparently, any plan likely to have the benign effect of bringing crazy Europe back to a sane basis.

Will Hays is said to have been called a "fixer" by Doug Fairbanks. Doug says he never said it, and that it isn't so anyhow.

One of the great producers says that Hays is an "uplifter," which may be a better term, yet a fixer may be useful, and there is nothing to keep him from being an uplifter at the same time.

A police judge of Los Angeles is accused of having written a country justice of the peace asking consideration for a prisoner about to appear in the court of the justice.

The police judge says he didn't write the letter and doesn't approve of such things. Meanwhile a reporter gets hold of the letter and prints it, virtually proving that somebody had written it.

"I didn't know I was pulling off those jobs," said a prisoner convicted of robbery. "I'd take a jolt and we'd start out."

Such is a fresh illustration of the potency of drugs to get the addict into trouble.

Los Angeles expects to have more police and hopes for better ones. There have been some pretty bad eggs in uniform over there, so many that the honest members of the force have had to devote much time to arresting crooked members, somewhat to the neglect of the bandit at large.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

The funny thing is that the town does not know that it has been reformed. No one even suspects it. Yet the change is as apparent to the occasional visitor as though it were proclaimed in a triumphal arch at the railway station. Even the reformer does not know that she has put through a reform.

"That's a hot sketch, that Roseland," some one said three years ago.

"All good people down there—and drunk all the time." The indictment was almost true. Roseland is a little town, inhabited entirely by commuters. Every one goes to the big city for amusement. It was not a town at all, in fact. Just an assemblage of houses. The only community spirit ever manifested came in bottles.

"Almost every night there was a dance somewhere, and always plenty to drink," my friends told me.

It seemed the least intelligent town I had ever visited. The men rarely talked shop, because one man's shop could not interest the other. They talked bootlegging, the local scandals, and the events of the day's train. The women dressed flashily, were painted a bit high, and were a shade too fat. The youngsters followed pa's and ma's suit. Roseland's flappers flapped terribly. The boys imitated jazzbans. Then the reformer instituted the book club.

"Books are so costly nowadays that none of us can buy as we used to," she said. "Let's each of us chip in a few dollars and a few books and start a little library. When we need more books we'll chip again."

At first the effect was not apparent. Pa and Ma danced and dressed and drank as furiously as ever. But the younger generation began to stay at home nights to read. Not all of them, of course, nor every night. But enough stayed home each night to seriously crimp Pa's activities and those of Ma. It is difficult to get noisily pickled if you know the growing son and daughter is upstairs in bed, thinking bitter thoughts about the dissolute progenitors. By and by Pa and Ma also began to read.

They still dance and dress and drink in Roseland. But they are also thinking and talking in Roseland. The town is reformed. Books did it.

FORTY FOOT WIDE COLORADO IS ADVOCATED

G. W. Mishler Issues Statement Urging Advantages of Wider Street

In a statement issued today, George W. Mishler urged the widening of Colorado street forty feet instead of twenty feet, with the purpose of converting it into the Western avenue of the foot-hills. The statement follows:

"Let's make Colorado street the Western avenue of the foot-hills. Why not widen it forty feet instead of twenty feet as contemplated? As a medium of advertisement for the city of Glendale, traffic on Colorado east and west cannot be overestimated. Why not profit by the mistakes or rather the lack of wisdom of Los Angeles?"

"It had excuses, we have none, for now a blind man could see the need."

"Just think, private eastern capital is seriously contemplating the expenditure of $500,000,000 in Los Angeles in the very immediate future for terminal water way facilities, etc. The proposed extension of Santa Monica boulevard to connect with Colorado through Glendale will react tremendously to our benefit providing we prepare adequately for it. Also the bridge across the river to the west connecting with Riverside Drive and Griffith Park."

"Right now Los Angeles is advocating the widening of Tenth street at a cost of untold millions under a ten-year program; in fact, it has created a six-cent tax rate for the purpose of providing for just such enterprises."

"Now don't go up in the air, folks. I am not desirous of seeing one cent added to our already over-loaded tax rate. But let's not procrastinate on these essential improvements until the expense would be prohibitive. Many of us can remember, for it was only a very few years ago, when there were only a few stores on Hollywood boulevard, at Calhoun and Highland avenues. Now look at it! We don't want Colorado street to build up like Hollywood boulevard (which, by the way, is inevitable) and have it an eyesore to the community in regard to width. Let's have vision and apply it, by preparing for the future now and doing it right."

COURT MOTOR CO. SERVICE SECTION NOW READY

The finishing touches have just been made to the service department of the Court Motor company, 235 South Brand boulevard. For the past several weeks a crew of men has been working to bring this service department up to the highest possible standard, and now that the work has been completed it is believed that this is one of the most complete auto repair establishments in this part of California.

All makes of cars are overhauled in the repair shop of the Court Motor company, which is, naturally, making a specialty of the Cadillac automobile, for which this firm is local agent.

An invitation is extended to the motorists and others of Glendale to visit this recently completed repair department and to see what a really up-to-the-minute shop of this kind looks like.

The Once Over

DICTATORS IN THE CLOTHING INDUSTRY

Now the dressmakers have their Judge Landis.

Members of the Associated Dress Industries of America, an organization controlling the dress industry of the country, met the other day and named David N. Mosessohn supreme dictator. We now have dictators of baseball, moving pictures, the stage, and ladies' wearing apparel.

The object of the dressmakers is to put the industry on a higher level and, quite obviously, skirts on lower and higher levels, according to the public demands.

Originally the dress magnates contemplated picking a commissioner from the cabinet of the President, following the example set by the hooking of Will Hays, but it was impossible to get any member of the Harding cabinet to admit he knew much about women's wear.

The administration seemed to have no policy on skirts any more than it has a policy on any other issue. Secretaries Hughes and Denby took the suggestion that they become grand leaguers of the ladies' garment industry as a plot by the Democrats to involve them in a scandal, and Attorney General Daugherty declared that he could get himself into plenty of hot water without changing his job.

There was some talk of naming a member of congress for the job, but the dress magnates opposed this on the ground that it would never do to place the business in the hands of old women.

So they finally picked Mr. Mosessohn. Mr. Mosessohn is a lawyer, and there is no kind of job a lawyer won't tackle if the price is

NEGROES SEEK OLD MEXICO TRACTS

OKMULGEE, Okla., Jan. 31.—The negroes of Oklahoma are being invited to a new "promised land" in old Mexico.

Whether it will be only a will o' the wisp, as many negro movements have been or a real exodus, remains to be seen.

The movement is sponsored by the International Community Welfare League, with offices in Los Angeles, Mexico City and here. A local man, J. B. Key, a negro, is president of the league.

The league claims that settlement rights in northern Mexico have been secured, which includes freedom and equality for negroes, Latin-Americans and Indians.

Already 15 families of negroes from this state have started for Mexico, the party consisting of tenant farmers and numbering 100 persons.

The local negroes for many years have eked out only a bare living as tenant farmers, and had very little property. They took with them in their special train their farming tools, livestock and household belongings. Their train had both passenger and freight coaches and was routed to the Southern Republic via Laredo, Tex.

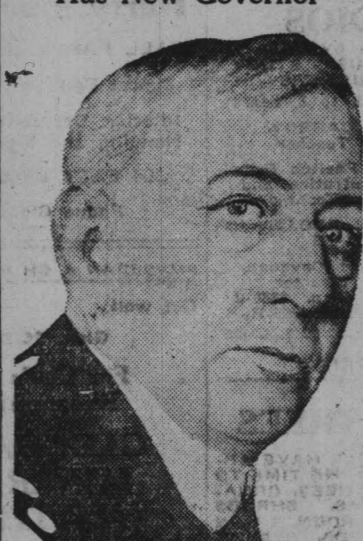

Key, the president, recently headed a delegation of United States negroes which visited Mexico City and conferred with President Obregon. Settlement rights to 150,000 acres of land in the state of Sonora, 110,000 acres in San Luis Potosi, and 200,000 acres on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec were secured by the league, according to Key.

The Mexican government is wholly in accord with the colonization movement, and will welcome the thousands of negro "pilgrims," Key said.

Expenses of the trip to Mexico will be paid pro rata by the emigrants, it was said. Total expenses of the Okmulgee colony were $3000 it was said.

Colonies of the blacks from other cities throughout the country are expected to "get under way" for the "promised land" in the immediate future, Key said.

You just simply can't see Harold Lloyd in "Dr. Jack" at the T. D. & L. theatre and leave the playhouse not feeling the better for it. It is good for no matter what ails you, and besides it is tremendously worth-while entertainment.

Although hail and snow visited Glendale yesterday the weather was not bad enough to keep the crowds away from the T. D. & L. where "Dr. Jack" was showing for the second day. In the first two days over 4500 local fans have witnessed the presentation of this, Harold Lloyd's latest big feature production. Today and tomorrow are the last two remaining days left for you to see this picture at the T. D. & L. If you haven't already seen it here—make your plans to do so—it will do you a world of good.

TOM MIX ARRIVES AT THE GLENDALE TODAY

Local followers of Tom Mix, the big luminary of the William Fox welkin, will have another treat in "Do and Dare," his latest vehicle which comes to the Glendale Theatre today for three days.

This new screen play, which is from the pen of Marion Brooks and which was directed by Edward Sedgwick, casts the vigorous hero in three distinct roles—first, as the valorous and peril-defying scout of the western plains who rescues the beautiful daughter of the commandant of a desolate frontier fort from a hostile Indian tribe, and then saves the post from the onslaughts of the savages; second, as the guileless and passive youth who neither knows of, nor seeks adventure in his provincial shell, but who is suddenly fired by the desire for romance when he hears the lurid tales of his famous forebear.

THE TWELVE-HOUR DAY

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

It will be news to many people that there still are numerous industries in which employees are worked on a twelve-hour shift. That every effort should be made, if only on humanitarian grounds, to effect a shortening of the working period of such industries goes without saying.

And that the much-to-be-desired shortening may be effected to the economic advantage both of the workers and of those by whom they are employed is a statement having the support of actual demonstration.

Only a short while ago H. B. Drury, reviewing the findings of the American Engineering Council's recently completed industrial survey, of which he was a field director, said, with reference to conditions in establishments where the change from twelve-hour to eight-hour shifts has already been made:

"Increased efficiency—manifested in increased production per man per hour, and per machine per day—has resulted. This is to be attributed to better physical and mental condition of the employees, better conduct of operation, less fuel used, less waste, fewer repairs to equipment and longer life of apparatus."

Also:
"The eight-hour day produces better morale, resulting in less absence and tardiness, less shirking and better discipline. Foremen can and will exert greater pressure because they do not have to hold back out of sympathy for tired men."

Of course, however, it is not a question merely of giving workers more leisure while continuing to maintain output. The best results, as noted by another investigator, Dr. H. E. Howe of the National Research Council, can be obtained only through concerted endeavor to educate and assist workers to make wise use of their greater leisure.

For it is unfortunately true that many, in all industries, do not know how to use leisure to real advantage. Hence leisure may become, and often is, as fatiguing as an unduly prolonged working day. This fact itself has perhaps contributed to the perpetuation of the twelve-hour day, employers dreading the "demoralization of leisure misspent."

Or, quoting Dr. Howe's comment on the Engineering Council's report of its survey:

"The references made in the report to the value of leisure ought to start many managers thinking along lines new to them, and give rise to considerations which may break down some of the prejudices against a change in the length of shift. It involves something of the spirit of service, for in many cases steps will have to be taken to teach labor the real value of leisure and the best ways of employing it."

"That labor can earn something in leisure hours by doing for itself many odd tasks which are ordinarily paid for has not occurred to many. While the thought that the net gain which results from leisure properly expended is very well worth while to the employer will also be new."

In any event the twelve-hour shift is an anachronism, and, though it may persist in some few industries, is certain to be increasingly eliminated. The closer the co-operation between employers and employed in effecting the necessary readjustments incidental to its elimination, the better for both employers and employed—and for the general public, which pays the wages alike of employer and employed.

DR. JUDSON TO RETIRE FROM U. OF C.

Head of University of Chicago to Rest After 16 Years

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (United Press).—Dr. Harry Pratt Judson, president of the University of Chicago for the last sixteen years, retired today after serving sixteen years as head of the institution. He was connected with the school for 31 years.

Dr. Judson was succeeded by Ernest De Witt Burton, who will take the office with the title of acting president. Burton was head of the department of the new testament and early Christian literature and director of the libraries.

The retirement of Dr. Judson has been contemplated for several months. The board of trustees conferred the degree of president emeritus upon Judson.

The University of Chicago has had two presidents, Dr. Judson having been preceded by William Rainey Harper. Both men started with the title of acting president.

Under President Judson's administration, the University of Chicago has experienced large expansion of resources and buildings. The Harper Memorial Library, Julius Rosenwald Hall, the Classics Building, the Ida Noyes Hall for Women and other buildings, were erected and plans for the University chapel practically completed. The resources of the university increased by $26,000,000 since he assumed charge in 1907 and the annual budget has grown from $1,016,300 to $3,375,000.

Dr. Burton was chairman of the committee that planned the $3,000,000 library group of buildings in 1904. He was graduated from Denison University and was Greek in-

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE CONTAGION

At night it's still about the house And little Johnny's like a mouse, Where once disturbance used to fill The place, now all is sweetly still. He says his prayers and goes to bed, He puts his precious little head Upon the pillow, sleeps away, He's growing better every day.

The kitchen now is all serene, Nor ever more is it the scene Of rage or anger; all is peace, And day by day its charms increase. The fires of glory brightly burn, The food is cooked to just a turn, The maid with smiles drives care away, She's growing better every day.

The neighbors are so kind and good, No sounds of quarreling intrude Upon our ears, and through the gloam Their dogs and cats stay right at home. With night comes on with raven wings I see them counting knots in strings And hear their lowered voices say: "We're getting better every day."

The ice man brings his frigid freight, The grocer's boy is never late, The milk is rich, the cream is thick, The 'phone girl so polite and quick. Life is so beautiful and holds I see them counting knots in strings, Nobody frets, work's just like play, We're getting better every day.

structor at Rochester Theological Seminary and a professor in the Newton Theological Seminary before coming to the University of Chicago at its founding in 1892. The policies of the University will be generally followed, according to President Burton, upon the plans laid down by his predecessors. "The emphasis of the university's work is on graduate and research study. This plan will be improved and strengthened, but not at the expense of undergraduate education," said Dr. Burton.

CITY PLAYERS' PRODUCTION ON FEBRUARY 15

To Form Special Offering at the Glendale Theatre

For three months rehearsals for the Arabian Love Story have been held by the Community Service Players of Glendale under direction of Nanno Woods. Most careful and painstaking training has been given not only the leads but even to the smallest parts. Thursday night, February 15, this beautiful Oriental play will be produced at the Glendale theatre as part of a special program offered by Mr. Howe.

It had been at first planned to rent the costumes of the principals, but nothing beautiful enough could be found; so willing workers have been meeting at the home of the director and creating the costumes to be worn by the entire cast, which numbers 21 persons.

The Misses Dorothy Patterson and Kathleen Woods have evolved three striking Arabian dances: Mrs. A. Whelon and Mrs. Almenia Bullock will sing two Arabian songs from "A Lover in Damascus" by Woodforde-Finden; Nathan Dial takes the part of a romantic young Sheikh from the desert; Clarence Edwards portrays a wealthy merchant prince, and Dorothy Woods plays the lovely young bride. Wedding guests, attendants, slaves, eunuchs, dancers, and singers combine to make a rich picture of Oriental life.

Glendale social and civic organizations are planning to be present on February 15 when the Arabian Love Story will be produced. Great interest and curiosity is being manifested in this, the first appearance of the Glendale Community Service Players before the public.

The players now number sixty. Membership is open to all men and women interested in dramatic art and kindred lines.
